

Wisconsin State Mid-Range Championship

By Jeff Nass

The Wisconsin CMP Juniors participated in the State High Power Championship at the Racine County Line Rifle Club.

Mid-Range is fired all at 600 yards. We had 8 juniors compete. Rain delays caused the match to be cut short on Sunday.

Thomas M led the way with his match rifle to become back to back state champion with his 1397-90x out of a possible 1400. James L also shot well taking home the trophy for top service rifle with a 1369-46x. Kacie M was top expert and high woman with her 1349-47x.

Just look at this beautiful facility. Government officials are discussing shutdown of this range on grounds owned by the Wisconsin National Guard. Wisconsin Firearm Owners is working on reversing that decision.

Congratulations to all the winners and personal bests fired over the weekend!

New Orleans PD response time is why you need a gun

By Tom Knighton

Major cities tend to favor gun control. People figure they don't need a gun because they can just call the police. In many cases, that works. After all, larger police departments tend to have the kind of manpower where help can be just a few minutes away.

That doesn't help if seconds count, but in New Orleans, it seems even if they don't, you're still screwed.

It is one of the most startling crime stats to emerge in recent months: It takes New Orleans police an average of 21/2 hours to respond to a 9-1-1 call, according to a new analysis presented to the City Council on Wednesday.

That figure, calculated by the data firm AH Datalytics and presented to the council's criminal justice committee, was determined after looking at response times for all calls — including low-priority incidents, like fender-benders or stolen cars where residents are in little danger.

The New Orleans Police Department immediately took issue with how data analyst Jeff Asher crunched the numbers, asserting that residents should focus instead on the department's response times for emergencies, which police get to largely within minutes.

Low-priority calls are often placed at the end of long backlogs, driving up the overall average.

The problem is that what can start as a low-priority call can become a high-priority call pretty quickly. And, of course, if you've already been marked down as low-priority, no one is coming faster unless you can make yet another call to 9-1-1.

At least some on the city council agree.

City Council members said the situation is a crisis that demands immediate action from City Hall.

"We're just done with the talk" said Council President Helena Moreno. "We just have to be really honest and say that potentially, people's lives could be at stake."

The problem is that the New Orleans Police Department is having a manpower problem. They simply don't have enough officers on the job to put them on the streets.

It doesn't help that funding for law enforcement was cut in 2021 to the tune of $15 million.

Earlier this year, the police union president cited progressive politicians as the reason still more officers are leaving the city, some for lower-paying positions. After all, why work to make arrests when the bad guy is going to just end up back on the streets in no time flat?

All of this brings me to point to this as why gun rights matter.

We cannot trust the police to save us. Even if Uvalde hadn't happened, this would be a big warning sign that maybe, just maybe, the police won't instantly respond to your 9-1-1 call, the same call you're counting on to keep you safe from that bump in the dark.

But if you have a gun, you have the means to protect yourself. It doesn't matter if it takes the police two and a half hours to finally get to your door because you'll still be alive to open it for them.

Remember that even in the best of cities, you can only count on the police to get there in time to draw a chalk outline around the body. It's your gun rights that give you the ability to make sure the body in question isn't yours. It's not a difficult decision to make.

[Editor's Note: Yes, this story is about New Orleans, — not Milwaukee, Madison, Eau Claire, Oshkosh, Ashland, Rhinelander, Green Bay or any other Wisconsin metropolis. But the message remain clear!

This story is essentially the same throughout our Country. Even most optimistically speaking, "When seconds count, the police are only minute way!"

2022 NRA National Pistol Championships

Camp Atterbury, Indiana

Jeff Nass

Teach Freedom - Support our Troops!

"It is not the critic who counts, nor the man who points how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly...who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at best, knows the triumph of high achievement; and who, at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat." — Theodore Roosevelt

After the second year of the NRA Pistol Nationals at Camp Atterbury, the struggle continues. NRA staff has been increased, including a new Pistol Coordinator, but additional help is needed at headquarters and at Camp Atterbury. It's obvious that the NRA is working on the issues and listening to competitors.

There is a continued lack of support from the Bullseye Pistol community. There is no doubt that if everyone who shot the new championship in Ohio came, it would have been tough to have a smooth match, but the support would help bring back a great championship. Turnout was up slightly from last year with great shooters on the line.

Head Referee was Wisconsin's own Jon Nortemann (pictured) so officiating ran smoothly. Jon has been a rock solid supporter of Bullseye Pistol and competition in Wisconsin and Nationwide longer than most can remember. Thank you Jon.

Sadly, I was the only Wisconsin shooter. I like shooting Bullseye but it is not the discipline that I am currently investing time in. The first shots fired since last year's matches from my match 22 & 45 were fired during the unsquaded practice the day before the matches started. I believe Wisconsin was well represented in all areas except my score.

We had a great week of weather, a little warm, but with a nice breeze until the last day when we had a short burst of high winds during the second relay. The wind was strong enough to blow most of the pistol boxes off the benches. Strapping them down is pretty standard, but I, like most, were complacent due to the week of good weather. Overall the match ran smoothly once you were past registration. The firing line is covered, but in the government's typical wisdom the firing line is right under the eave side of the roof. Rain wasn't an issue but dew dripping off the roof dropped on the benches. However it was nice firing from under the shade. The NRA is aware of these issues and pushing the State to correct them.

A big thank you goes out to the State of Indiana for hosting the Nationals and to Indiana Rifle and Pistol for their support. Camp Atterbury, located in south-central Indiana, serves as a military and civilian training post under the Indiana National Guard.

There were great scores posted please check out the results at <https://competitor.nra.org/public/ChampionshipResults.aspx>

Congratulations to SSG Carl Clegg of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit, the 2022 NRA National Pistol Champion! SSG Clegg and Jon Shue were neck and neck ending with SSG Clegg firing a 2649 – 143x to Mr. Shue's 2648 – 129x. As both shooters were on relay 1, on firing points only a couple of spots from mine, I snapped a picture of Mr. Shue going directly over to SSG Clegg once the relay ended and boxes were secured, to congratulate him.

Bullseye Pistol is a great discipline within itself, but is also a great companion for the other disciplines such as High Power Rifle or Action Pistol and can definitely aid your self-defense skills. It is also a great way to help new gun owners or gun club members to safely and accurately use a pistol.

Check the Wisconsin FORCE calendar and "find NRA near you" search engine to find more end-of-the-season matches while the weather holds out for outdoor shooting. The indoor pistol season is right around the corner.

If your club or range doesn't have a bullseye group, think about starting one. Set up is easy for Bullseye Pistol for practice, league, or registered matches.

What If . . .

Instructor's Corner

by
Gary Behr
Madison

White • Yellow • Orange • Red

This is for informational purposes only and should NOT be construed as "Instruction". As always, get professional training before practicing any Concealed Carry.

When you are in a White condition, You are oblivious to the world around you and in the eyes of a felon, waving a sign that says "attack me!"

With a little practice, being in a Yellow condition is rather easy and can become second nature. This is a "Situational Awareness" state of mind that offers the most reasonable personal security.

If something seems odd or unusual, perhaps hived you just a "gut feeling", that would be the time to go into a "high alert" or Orange condition, where you are ready, if necessary, to take action! (You do NOT want anything to surprise you!)

If things escalate to Red, a good part of the results will be directly based on the extent o your training.

Training: Keep in mind, instinctive or intuitive responses are based on conditioned "muscle memory". To effectively build a specific "muscle memory" may easily require 2,000 to 5,000 repetitions!

Which is precisely why training is so important!

Colonel John Dean (Jeff) Cooper developed a simple "Situational Awareness" guideline using for primary colors: White - Yellow - Orange - Red.

White: This simply means the defender is unaware and unprepared. (Think of a person walking in public, immersed in their cell phone.)

Yellow: This condition reflects a certain awareness of the world around the individual. (Perhaps as someone is shopping.)

Orange Adds to the awareness of YELLOW while putting a particular or specific, potential threat into focus. (Perhaps while walking down an unfamiliar street in a strange neighborhood)

Red: Using the ORANGE parameters. RED means the potential threat has become legitimate, the confrontation has developed and the fight is on. (You are now accosted and potentially in a "life or death" situation.)

Senator Ernest: ATF Needs to Answer These Questions Concerning Its “Knock and Talk” Visits with Gun Owners

by S.H. BLANNELBERRY and informedwithanthony on AUGUST 23, 2022

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives (ATF) is currently going door-to-door in some states to question gun owners about recent firearm purchases.

The Biden administration says the goal of these warrantless “knock-and-talk” visits is to crack down on suspected “straw purchasers,” aka criminals with no disqualifying records that would show up in an FBI background check (NICS check) who buy guns on behalf of other criminals or prohibited persons.

Wilmington Delaware: A gun owner was surprised when 2 ATF agents and 1 State Trooper showed up to his house asking to see his guns.

According to a WaPo Report, President Biden, in an attempt to combat rising gun violence, is working with ATF to begin knocking on gun owners homes who have recently purchased multiple firearms at once, in an attempt to fight “straw purchases”, or the act of buying more than one gun in an attempt to give/sell that gun to someone who typically can’t legally own a gun, such as a minor or convicted felon.

The man said he felt embarrassed as many neighbors came out to see what was happening as ATF agents rolled up to his house. He said he also felt “coerced” by the agents into showing them all his guns, despite having done nothing wrong.

The Biden Admin stated last year, that these at-random gun checks would begin happening not just in large cities but even suburban neighborhoods. They said they are specifically focusing in areas around the 95 Corridor, and the states of Indiana, Nevada, and Arizona.

When journalists reached out to DE state police and Wilmington ATF branch for comment, they declined.

Second Amendment advocates say this goes against ATF previously saying they have “no database” on gun owners, but “clearly, they do” if they are going home to home checking off people from their list. It appears the name, address, and a full list of what guns was purchased by the owner is on the paper.

U.S. Senator Joni Ernst (R-Iowa) has concerns about these encounters in that they, among other things, may violate law-abiding citizens’ 4th Amendment rights which protects them from unreasonable searches and seizures.

WFO Members — The American justice system is based on a presumption of innocence and searches only in conjunction with a warrant with probable cause.

This article discusses searches by the ATF where they haven't shown warrants or probable cause which would violate the 4th amendment rights of the gun owner.

If you or someone you know has experienced this sort of ATF “knock-and-talk” visits in Wisconsin, please let us know. We would like to see if we can help.

Trigger Editor Info

The current newsletter editor has run into some personal issues which will necessitate stepping down as Trigger editor by the end of the year.

The current editor has formatted and standardized the newsletter to make it as convenient as possible to update and publish each month's edition.

The layout format used is Mac's "Pages", although Adobe "InDesign", Affinity "Publisher" or even Microsoft "Word" could also be adapted.

(Mac's "Pages" is a free program, included with the operating system and is easy to configure.)

Image adjustments are pretty basic and can be done with most any photo application.

Transitioning to a new editor should be relatively painless and seamless, especially if the new editor is on a Mac system. If you are interested, please contact the current editor for details.

Being the editor can be fun, informative, rewarding and a chance to contribute to WFO!

By the way, the reference to "Fame and Fortune", as editor, may have been a little optimistic.

Easy Hints for Better Articles

These simple hints can vastly improve your public commentary and article submissions!

1) Use your camera's flash on ALL outdoor photographs! The advantages can be dramatic! Your flash, even if it's just moderately powered (i.e. using a phone camera) can subdue or eliminate facial shadows!

You may have noticed, especially on a bright day, the deep shadows in a subject's face. If the subject is wearing a visor hat, the result is mostly a black blob (deep shadow) where the face used to be!

The other major benefit of always using your flash is it adds a sparkle (catchlight) to the subject's eyes. It turns the person from appearing cadaverous to looking lifelike, alert and attractive!

2) Another thing that can make world of difference is to just get closer to the subject! Do you really need to have your subject look diminutive? In most cases, empty sky, trees, shrubbery, buildings, walls, etc. add nothing to the story of the photograph. Small subjects also obfuscates detail and just plain wastes otherwise useable image space!

Another benefit of getting closer is it also makes your flash much more effective!

3) List the names of all who are prominently depicted in each photo! If a person is important enough to have their image displayed, they should also deserve the respect to have their names listed (with proper spelling!). You may know who they are, but chances are, 90% of the readers won't know who the person pictured is!

4) Avoid using indiscriminate time frames, such as "Today", "Tomorrow", "yesterday", "last week", etc. Those references only apply to the moment you write them and are worthless for future reference.

FOR EXAMPLE: "Today I broke my leg!" However, that "today" occurred ten years ago! You're much better off using "hard" references, such as 9/5/2022, or September fifth or whatever date that applies. Offering a "hard" reference keeps everything in perspective, whether your text is read the following week or even ten years from now!

It's the simple, little things, as these, that can make a BIG difference! Especially to everyone who views or reads your contributions!

Additional Gun Safety Rules

- ⊙ Always clear a gun every time you touch it!
- ⊙ Always wear appropriate eye and ear protection!
- ⊙ Always use only the correct ammunition!
- ⊙ Always wash your hands and face in cold water!
- ⊙ Always transport a gun unloaded, in the trunk!
- ⊙ Always store a gun inaccessible to children!

Your Contributions Matter

We can't have much of a newsletter without news, and that's where you can play an important part!

After all this is YOUR NEWSLETTER!

Any contributions, large or small, are gratefully appreciated. Whether it be text, photos or graphics, they are all welcome.

It could be important "hard" news — light (nice-to-know) news — or even editorial opinions.

There are only a few things we ask:

- ★ Make sure your work is original, not just copied from another source (with your name as author);
- ★ If you are briefly quoting a source, be sure to include the name of the source;
- ★ Double-check to make sure the spelling of names and references are accurate;
- ★ If you're submitting a photo, the larger the file size the better. DON'T bother editing it, we'll take care of that;
- ★ If people can be easily recognized in your photo, be sure to include their name and title or position (i.e. Senator);
- ★ If the photo is taken in public, a "release" shouldn't be necessary. But if the photo was taken in a private setting, legally your safest bet is to get a "release". After all, who can afford a lawsuit?

(Contact us for more info)

- ★ Most important: Include your name, contact information (phone, email) and topic source.

Imagine — Your name in print !!!

How To Take Better Pictures

Whether you are using a smart phone or a more conventional camera, these tips are for everyone!

1) When composing an image, use the "thirds" theory, where the most important part of the image is in one of the "third" frame sections, but NOT in the middle.

2) Check your background. Try and avoid poles or branches growing out of the subject's head, or an unwanted distraction in the back;

3) Always use your flash, even in bright sunlight. It can help fill in some closer shadows and also adds a "sparkle" to a person's eyes;

4) Take plenty photos of the same subject. With digital, the cost is negligible and it helps avoid an unwanted blink or glitch;

5) If you have the option, always use the highest quality image (largest size) setting;

6) If you're submitting the image for publication, DO NOT edit it. We'll do that;

7) If you're using images to tell a story, use at least three sets of images:

- 1). A "long" shot to set the overall scene;
- 2). A "middle" shot for a descriptive view;
- 3). A "Close-up" for detail;

WFO Article Submission: Image and Text "Releases"

Some of our readers expressed concern, when considering submission of an article for our newsletter, about Copyright laws pertaining to "releases" for names and images.

According to Stanford Libraries: Copyright and Fair Use, these guidelines would apply (Reprinted with permission):

When to Use a Release

Whether you need to obtain a release depends on why you want to use a person's name or image. If your use is for commercial purposes—for example, using a person's photo in an advertisement—you need to obtain a release. If your use is for informational purposes such as a documentary film or news article, you may not need a release.

Informational Uses

You do not need a release to use a person's name or image for informational purposes. An informational (or "editorial") purpose is anything that informs, educates, or expresses opinions protected under the First Amendment of the United States Constitution—freedom of speech and of the press. An informational use would include using a person's name or photograph in a newspaper or magazine article, educational program, film, nonfiction book, or informational website.
